Sale of Pews in the New Brick Church. The announcement published in the daily papers that the pews in the new Brick Church would be sold at auction last evening brought a large number of persons together at the appointed time and place. The occasion was one of much interest to all present, but especially to those who attended for the purpose of purchasing. The holding was quite lively, and the premiums paid for the privilege of selecting pews in any part of the church were higher than usual at sales of this character. The auction was conducted by Mr. Adrian H. Mulier, but before the pews were put up Mr. Holden made a few remarks in regard to the manner in which the trustees had performed the duties with which they had been charged. He spoke as follows:-The trustees, your servants, gentlemen, have desired me to say a few words which may be proper on the present occasion. It would have been very gratifying to them to have been able to have answered all the questions and explained all the difficulties in the mind of any gentleman who was the owner of a pew in the oils Brick Church, if it were practicable. It is very evident that it would be impossible to satisfy all the inquiries that have been made of the trustees, and they have not been able to devise a way to do so. They wish to say that they have for a long time had the subject of soiling the oild church and the building of a new one under their charge, and it has been attended with no littly difficulty. You never will know the time and anxiety and care that the Board of Trustees have bestowed upon the subject of the disposal of the old church. It has been no smail matter to creet this new editice. It may seem to some a very easy and pleasant affair, but I can assury you it has cost a great deal of care and anxiety to accomplish it. We dout say we are deserving of any credit for this—we have only done our duty; but we hope we shall be fairly judged. One of the chief difficulties woment was the disposal of the pows, and it was a serious one. We have looked at it carefully, and I may say prayerfully, and we now lay the results beforeyon. We might have come to the congregation and asked their opinion on the subject; but it is evident to my mind there would be as many opinions as there were pewholders. We want to all the churches that had experience in the matter, and derived from them all the information that we could as to the manner in which they disposed of their privace of the manner in which they disposed of their prews, and the best more of disposing of ours. We once supposed we might build a church which would be precisely the same as the old Brick Church, and give to cach pewholder has proper location; but we found this impracticable. There were six powers that the church which would be precisely the same as the old Brick Church which would be precisely the same as the old Brick Church and would be precisely the same as the old brick Church with he would be precisely to the old church wit

The People's College-Meeting at Cooper Institute.

A small audience assembled in the Cooper Institute last evening to hear addresses upon the subject of the "People's College," which is being erected at Havana, Schuyler county, New York. The corner stone of the in stitution was laid on the 2d of September, 1858, as is said, in the presence of fifteen thousand persons. There are 200 acres of land connected with the college.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Horace Greeley. William C. Bryant, Esq., was elected chairman. On taking the chair Mr. Bryant stated the object of the meetting. He was greatly pleased that an effort was being made to give the youths of our land the facilities of ob-taking the chair Mr. Bryant stated the object of the meeting. He was greatly pleased that an effort was being made to give the youths of our land the facilities of obtaining a first class education without feeling themselves dependent upon direct charity. Another great advantage of the acheme was the union of mental and physical labor; the latter was necessary to prevent physical degeneracy, especially in this age, when people are subject to intense mental labor and excitation.

Hon. Schttyrik Coleax, of Indiana, was called upon and addressed the assembly. He commenced by expressing great regret that he had never had the facilities of an education. He considered ignorance the greatest foe of liberty and the surest ally of despotism, in proof of which he referred to Louis Napoleon, who know, said he, that he could never sustain his tyranny without suppressing the liberty of the press. The speaker then went on to name several Senators who had risen from peor mechanics, and also other men, in Europe and America, who, from poverty and labor, had risen to position, honor and fame. Such examples, he thought, should encourage them in their noble labor to open for similar persons, who are devold of the means of ottaining an education in our ordinary schools, an institution which will give them all the facilities for intellectual culture that they desire.

A letter was then read from flex, Dr. Tyng, excusing himself because of his absence, and strongly recommending the proposed college to popular support.

Rev. Dr. Persus next addressed the assembly. He spoke of the means there would be connected with the Preprice College for young men to support themselves at it by their own industry. They could not only obtain a good mental education there, but they could also learn some useful trade or pursuit fur life. That was an important consideration, especially to the poorer class of our people. This college would not only be adapted to the learning of the mechanic artequence. He considered the People's water.

Great Dog Exhabition and Rat Killing. The "sports" of New York had last evening an exhibition of fancy black and tan terriers, buil terriers, buildigs, and some innocent amusement at rat killing against time. As a specimen of how catering for the fan ty is attended to n the metropolis, we give place to "princely" Harry's announcement for the sports of the evening:-

MAMMOTH Fancy crowding round outside, and Dog despat hing rats against time.

Dog despat thing rats against these against the well known entablishment known as the state of the well known entablishment known as the state against a commodence places in the world, and intends giving a GRAND OPENING EXHIBITION.

ON TUESDAY EXENDED, NOV. 30, 1868, consisting of a show of dogs and a great handleap rat match, open to black tan terriers only.

Four prizes will be awarded, in the following order:—
1st prize—A handsome silver goodlet will be awarded to the handsomest black tan terrier for all properties.
2d prize—A handsome silver mounted collar will be awarded to the handsomest built terrier.
3d prize—A silver mounted collar to the highest bred buildog, for all properties.
4th prize and last—A handsome ambrotype, in gilt frame, of the dog that kills the rats in the quickest time, which likeness will be taken the following day. The dogs to be fairly handle capped, as follows.—Each dog to kill one rat for every two pounds in weight.

H. J. will have 500 rats, free of charge, for gentlemes to try their dogs. A fine and handsome specimen of a lengard will open the sports of the evening by killing six rats in good style.

This promises to be one of the largest canine exhibitions of the season, this being the first dog show of the kind that has ever taken place in the United States, and will accommodate 2,000 persons confortably.

Poors open at 7: to commence at 7% precisely.

Admission 20 cents: reserved scats 50 cents.

After all these line assurances for the comfort and gratification of his ratterns.

After all these fine assurances for the comfort and grati-fication of his patrons, Harry naturally enough expected a rush; but fortune and a cold evening were against him. The "commodious" hall was anything but densely crowded, and the demands for "reserved scats" were far from being plenteous. Never at a loss for a story, Harry had it that many of his friends knew that his "fitting up" was not quite finished, and had consequently stopped away. With this unction to his soul, manufactured or real, the caterer went in for making the thing social, put on a cheerful look, and opened the evening's sport by inviting gentlemen present to come forward with their black and tans. a rush; but fortune and a cold evening were against him

Harry, after some difficulty, managed to get two judges appointed, and took his place behind a table in the rat pit, a ring nine feet in diameter in the ceutre of the ball. The black and tans were brought to the table and underwent very close inspection, Harry more than once assuring his patrons that he was desirous of seeing the best dog get the prize. The dogs were presented in the following order.

suring his patrons that he was desirous of seeing the best deg get the prize. The dogs were presented in the following order:—

1—Mr. Pritchard's dog Jack.

2—Mr. White's dog Dandy.

3—Mr. Gross's slut Nelly.

4—Mr. Brown's dog Pon.

5—Mr. George Pritchard's slut Beauty.

6—Mr. Jacob Rowan's dog Nelson.

7—Mr. Charleton's slut Lucy.

8—Mr. Jos. Burkhard's dog Sport.

9—Mr. Henry's slut Busy:

10—Mr. Henry's slut Busy:

12—Mr. Henry's dog Boney.

12—Mr. Lyon's slut Fan.

14—Mr. Charleton's dog Toby.

Toby was declared the handsomest dog on exhibition, and entitled, according to the announcement, to the sliver goblet. Its owner, however, judging that he was more fikely to use it, took his choice of the two goblets for the first and second prizes. During the examination Harry made the place merry with his jokes. One dog was like himself, he said—'not over and above 'andsome.' A patron in the gallery got the grumbles, and was considerably annoyed at the rigid examination to which the appendage of his dog had been subjected while others were passed by; but Harry was ready for him, with the assurance that they had chosen judges and must abide by their decision.

SECOND EXHIBITION—THE BULL TERRIERS.

Mr. Francis Butler's dog Tumbler, Jr.
 Mr. Murphy's dog Fly
 Mr. Fletcher's slut Busy.
 Mr. Fletcher's dog Billy.

4. Mr. Fletcher's dog Billy.
Billy got the second cup.

THERD EXHIBITION—THE BULLDOGS.

Only two dogs were entered for the prize—Billy and Mr. Butler's dog Tumbler, Senior. The latter had the prize. Harry, by way of entertainment, toid some story about Tumbler's pedigree; but there was more of the showman than the historian in Harry's data. Mr. Butler, however, claims to give Tembler's pedigree for five generations. Curious to learn something of the reasons for keeping such a dog, we found that the fancy are as anxious to get a collar or a cup as a mouse trap inventor or a wooden nutmeg patentee is for the lastitute's medal. Tumbler brings its owner a good weekly salary—fifteen or twenty dollars a week is nothing extraordinary—improving stock. He is a handsome dog, between three and four years old, twenty pounds weight, and valued at $200. He was imported from London, where he had been on exhibition, and had a "friendly shake" with another bulldog "to try his pluck."

dog "to try his pluck."

THE RAT KILLING.

This "imnocent amusement" was introduced with Harry's leopard cat and four rats. The cat was a cat, and acted like a cat with kittens more than as a rat killer. Harry's cat created lots of merriment, and seemed as frightened at the rats as they were at it. The "innocenta," however, got slaughtered, and the cat was taken back to his cage. Then commenced the rat killing against time.

type he might prefer; or no type suiting, a collar was ready.

During the "killing." while one of the fancy was "handling" his dog, suddenly a rat disappeared. It was a mystery where the "dead rat" had gone to, but on the owner of the dog stepping out from the pit the creature was discovered accurely enaconced up his coat. He had to return and let his dog despatch him, and add the time to "the score." Others in the pit during the evening had to dance nimbly to keep them from running up their continuations.

to dance nimbly to keep them from running up their continuations.

To close the performances, Harry emptied from two great boxes of rats quite a beshel of the creatures into the 'pit,' and in went everyboly's dog and slut and made dreadful havec. This seemed to please the fancy amazing. It was somewhat difficult to determine whether the dog yeiping, the rat squealing, or the fancy shouting, was the loudest.

The number of patrons who paid their "quarters" was represented to be between 100 and 150. This, with the "inquering" at the "bar," would doubtless pay; but Harry counts upon big times during the winter. It is represented that the taste for sport is greatly on the increase in the metropolis, and that caterers for public favor are going to be as thick as mushrooms, to teach anything and everything, and doubtless many things better unlearned flan acquired.

The Fancy.

ANOTHER MATCH AND A ROUGH AND TUMBLE—A

CHALLENGE TO TOM HYER.

Morrissey has just returned to the city from Philadelphia, where he gave last week two sparring exhibitions. Shades of Penn and coadjutors: two sparring exhibitions n the City of Brotherly Love in one week! A few hun dreds only are said to have known of the first, and only that number attended; but the second was a "bumper" that number attended, but the second was a "oumper"— the place was completely filled "by a most respectable audiance." The champion is to appear in Boston shortly,

A statement has recently been going the rounds of the country newspapers that Tom Hyer, of this city, has chal lenged any man in the world to fight him for $10,000 a side. We believe there is no truth in the report that Hyer has made any such challenge, but, true or not, the an-nouncement has excited the fighting proclivities of a number of well known pugilists, as well as of a number who known. Among the latter is one John J.

Deck, of Noble county, Ohio, who writes as follows to the Noble County Democrat:— Ms. Entros—In looking over your columns, I see that Tom Hyer has challenged any man in the world to fight him for $10,000. I had long since quit the ring, and thought that I would never again enter it, but in order to check the rapid growth of egotism that has assumed such a prominence in the mind of Mr. Hyer, I accept the chaitener to fight him for the stated amount, at any convenient time and place.

The editor of the Democrat publishes the above, and thus speaks of Mr. Deck —

Mr. Peck is an American by birth, and one among the most respectable citizons of our community; and although we know him to be a man of great physical force, possessed of an unusual amount of daring and energy, yet we little thought that he, of all men else upon the continent, would propose to meet the acknowledged "bulldog" of America in simple combat. He has many friends who will back him, who claim that, in point of science, he is not inferior to Hyer, and is able to compate with any man in the States in muscular power. His height is rising six feet—straight as an arrow—and weights, when stripped, 206 poonds. He is said to have been in the ring but once, and then proved successful. His huge and giant like frame infecteds him to be a man of superior strength; and though we hope the two combatants may never meet, yet, if a transaction so disgraceful should ever occur, we predict for the Buckeye Boy the championship of the world.

POLICE PAY .- The appropriation for the payment of the police for this year has been paid out, and the officers have been notified that they need expect no money from the city treasury until next February. This is not a very pleasant winter prospect for the policemen.

CHALLENGE TO THE FRIENDS OF MR. PURSER.

Col. Ming to Mr. John Kelly:—

New York, Nov. 27, 1858.

My Dean Kelly:—I have just pernsed the resolution which you effered before, and was adopted by, the public meeting held in Tanomany Hall last evening. I am far from believing that you would whichly malead or missifrorm the denocracy of New York, to which you owe so much; yet I am convinced that the position assumed by you to that resolve is totally interesble. And as I have no disposition to do a wilful injustice either to Mr. Furser or yourself, I challenge you to an investigation of the facts, upon the following bass:—

We shall—you and I—agree upon some respectable third party, say James T. Brady, Wm. M. Evarts or Simeon Radwin, who shall sid us in our researches, and report, in order to arrive at the desired result, we shall examine the newspapers published in this city during the years 1834-5-6-7, and again those of 1846 and 1852 as I hope to be able to prove from this investigation and from sworn affidavize—

First—That George H. Purser, in a public discussion which he held with a Dr. Sleight, maintained that the secred Scrinters, and particularity the New Testament, were laise and unimagired productions.

Second—That our Lord and Savier, Jesus Christ was not the Son of Ged, but an earth born child of sourious origin.

Third—That he dented, most blasphemously, the existence of a Supreme too.

Four th—That he was the associate and companion of Fanny

Four th—That he dented, most blasphemously, the existence of Third—That he denied, must be apprenensity, as a Supreme Good.

Fourth—That he was the associate and companion of Fanny Wright and Maria Monk.

Finally—That to elevate such a man to the office of Comproller would be establishing a bad precedent in the morais of the city, that by deing so his political elevation would be reached by the youth of the metropolis as an incentive to imitate such bad examples.

garded by the youth of the metropoles as an incommendation bad examples.

And as to the authorship of "The Awful Disclosures of Maria Monk," if Mr. Purser did not write it, and was not privy to its production, let him production, let him production, let him procure the allidavits, of its original and bona fide publishers to that effect. I am, my dear Kelly, very sincerely, your obedient servant.
